GREENLEE'S NEW WIRE AND VALVE LOCATOR'S FLEXIBILITY MAKES FOR FAST IRRIGATION SYSTEM SERVICE
New longer integral antenna wand makes walking a trace easier

ROCKFORD, Ill. November 2006 —Greenlee, a Textron Inc. (NYSE: TXT) has introduced an updated Model 521A Wire and Valve Locator that provides a fast and accurate method for irrigation and pool professionals to locate wire paths when looking for buried valve solenoids, wire breaks or other problems associated with buried objects.

The powerful new 521A transmitter operates from inexpensive easy-to-find 'D' cell batteries and has a variable power output so users can adjust for varying wire length and ground conditions. The 521A receiver adds loudspeaker listening for those that choose not to use the included rugged headset, and the new, longer integral antenna wand makes walking a trace more comfortable.

The 521A Wire and Valve Locator weighs less than 12 pounds and its power-coated aluminum components are housed in a slim, rugged polyethylene case. The 521A comes with a transmitter, receiver, headset, ground stake, and complete instructions. The required eight 'D' cells and a 9V battery are included with the product. The 521A carries a 1-year warranty.
